Rob Lapota holds the position of Senior Manager, Employee Relations Services and Program Development for MRA-The Management Association, Inc. Over 22 years of experience in all facets of human resource management has prepared Rob to assist employers in finding workable solutions to real-life human resources issues.

As a nationally renowned speaker, Rob also spearheads the development and presentation of human resource training programs offered at MRA and employer facilities. He has trained thousands of employees and continually develops new programs to respond to the changing needs of employers.

Rob holds a bachelor of business administration in industrial relations and master's degree in industrial and labor relations from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. His training also includes participation in the HR Executive Management Program, University of Michigan, and the Certified Trainer Program through Achieve Global.

As the largest employers association in the Midwest, MRA is proud to partner with nearly 4000 employers each year. Our 150 associates provide tools, talent and training opportunities to help cultivate engaged, productive employees. In addition to HR services and solutions, our Institute of Management provides over 1000 training events annually at our offices or at employer sites.
